學校簡介
Introduction

Nagasaki University, located in a region that geographically faces the Asian Continent across the East China Sea, possesses the history and memory of Dejima and is invested with a unique mission by the atomic bombing. To honor the special history and carry forward its mission, Nagasaki University seeks to develop new values and human resources with outstanding personal qualities capable of contributing to the sustainable development of a rapidly changing modern world and local community, on the basis of its unique features and tradition that have been nurtured for many years. For the promotion of bold innovations and reform under the leadership of the president, Nagasaki University has specifically set the following objectives for the Third Mid-term Target Period.

1. To become a world-class center of “global health” education and research that contributes to human health on a global scale.
2. To significantly improve the overall excellence of the entire university across all disciplines to establish a foundation for becoming one of the world’s best universities.
3. To develop Nagasaki University-brand human resources who have both the ability to address local community issues and the ability to be active on the international stage.
4. To develop, especially in undergraduate education, excellent and unique graduates capable of immediately responding to the issues they face based on the problem-solving ability, creative thinking ability, communication skills and other abilities expected of graduates as well as knowledge and excellence in their respective areas of expertise.
5. To serve as the driving force of regional revitalization in the age of globalization as a community-based university by staying close to the needs of the community and providing the benefits of the results of education and research to the local administration, industry, health and medical services, education, and tourism.
