學校簡介
Introduction

The Warsaw University of Life Sciences - SGGW (WULS-SGGW) is considered as one of the top Polish institutions of higher education. It offers a wide-range of courses, connected with biological, technical, medical, economic and humanistic fields of study. WULS enrolls about 27,000 students including undergraduate as well as students at MSc, PhD and other graduate programs. It also offers a range of professional courses in English (almost 200). Moreover, seven master programs are offered in English. The University collaborates with 170 international partners from all continents. On the annual basis, about 1400 University employees and students travel internationally (including about 200 students participating in international practical training programs). Overall, WULS is ranked #801-1000 in QS World University Ranking and #112 in 2019 EECA University Rankings.
