

Celebrating NCHU's Cultural Diversity with Unified Support

Salman Akram | NCHU | Department of veterinary medicines

"The artwork I've created captures the essence of National Chung Hsing University's (NCHU) vibrant cultural celebrations, centered around two key events that are pivotal in promoting international unity and cultural exchange. These events, though held on different days, are both organized by the Office of International Affairs (OIA) with the support of the National University System of Taiwan (NUST), a government initiative that strengthens connections among Taiwan's national universities.

The first scene portrays the annual parade, where international students proudly march with their country flags during NCHU's birthday celebration on November 1st. This parade symbolizes the university's commitment to fostering a sense of unity amidst its diverse student body, as students from around the world come together to celebrate their cultural identities within the NCHU community.

The second scene showcases the "International Festival Market," another significant event organized by the OIA. This market features booths representing various countries, offering traditional foods, crafts, and cultural experiences. It serves as a dynamic platform for cultural exchange, allowing participants to explore and appreciate the richness of global traditions.

The NUST plays a crucial role in supporting these events by providing the necessary resources and fostering collaboration among Taiwan's national universities. Their support ensures that NCHU continues to thrive as a hub for cultural diversity and global engagement.

By combining these scenes, the artwork highlights the collaborative efforts of NCHU, OIA, and NUST in celebrating and nurturing a diverse, inclusive, and globally connected university environment."